Always To Go Forward!

Saint Elizabeth High School first opened in 1921 and occupied the upper floor of this building in 1924. Not since that year has any annual held such significance as The Elizabethan 1960, which records our "Year of Renewal".

The new elementary school on Thirty-third Avenue left us in complete possession of the building with space for a larger enrollment, more faculty members, and facilities for an expanded program. Thus our high school has been remodeled through the year with plans, paint, and patience. But the remodeling was not merely that of transforming an old building. The atmosphere of new surroundings contributed to the primary remodeling, that of the students themselves.

New attitudes and principles were achieved by many students with the encouragement and the example of school officials. Studentbody assemblies, class projects, athletic endeavors, and fund raisings assisted in providing more student unity and spirit.

Remembering the lessons of renewal let us always move forward, not content with present achievements but striving towards our ultimate goal.

Pope John XXIII

Progressive and understanding in his dealings with a so-called "modern generation", Pope John XXIII has been awarded the title of a "modern" Pope. Despite the progress made in this century, Pope John has stated that the written word must still assist its readers in their search for truth and right thinking.

Through our labors on The Elizabethan 1960, we have striven to fulfill his admonition: "The Catholic journalist does not follow the changing caprices of public opinion and even less orients them according to his own pleasure, but he feels the duty to serve the truth, remembering the words of Our Lord Jesus Christ: 'Let your light shine before men, in order that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father in heaven.'" (Matt. 5, 16)

Archbishop John J. Mitty

Archbishop John J. Mitty is celebrating the Silver Jubilee of his succession to the See of San Francisco this year.

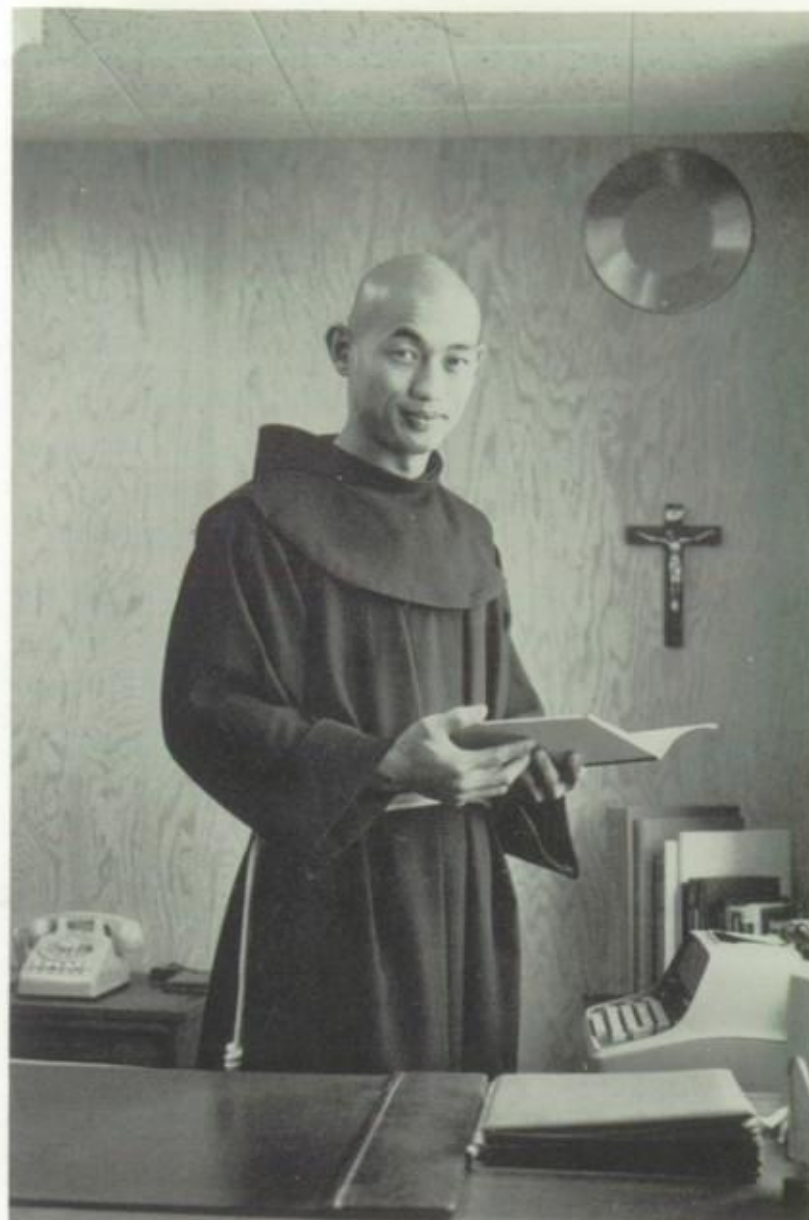

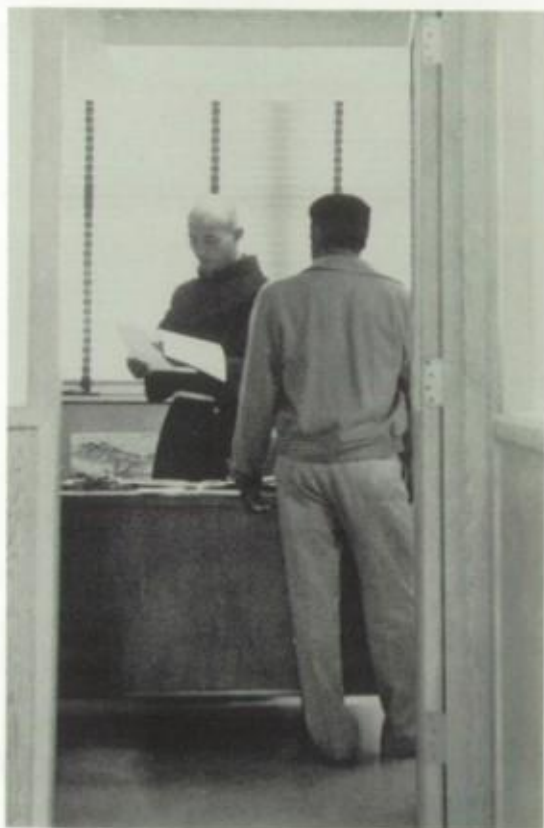

Not only has the archdiocese of San Francisco prospered under his watchful guidance and encouragement, but also Catholic school enrollment has increased from 28,175 pupils in 1935 to the present figure of 84,650; during the same period, St. Elizabeth High School has grown from 196 students to 630.

Father Dennis Mahoney, O.F.M.

Our Pastor, Father Dennis Mahoney, O.F.M., is a man to be held in the highest esteem by all of the students and parishioners of St. Elizabeth's. Father has made possible the building of the new grammar school, and the renovation of our own high school. We owe sincere thanks to him for the countless conveniences and alterations that have been brought about because of his fatherly concern for us.

Ready help is given to any student by Father Emery. Besides managing the affairs of all major school projects, Father devotes many of his well-filled hours to student discipline and guidance.

Father Emery, Principal

The Elizabethan 1960 pictures thoroughly the year's extensive improvements. What it cannot portray is the difference these changes should make in the students. After all, a building, like clothes, does not make the man. Unless our happy graduates and spirited students reflect increased moral growth and intellectual stature, our building might well be the "whitened sepulcher" which sickened the Master.

Father Emery, O. F. M.
Principal

Whether conducting a meeting, or speaking to the student body over the new public address system, the forceful serenity of Father Emery is always prevalent.

Administration

The proper functioning of St. Elizabeth High School is due in large measure to the tedious hours spent by the administration in the offices "behind the scenes." Father Roch Fitzgerald, vice-principal; Sister Mary Edward, dean of girls; and Father Joel Scott, dean of boys; continually work for the good of the students. Father Godfrey Baur, registrar, advises the students concerning their grades, class schedules, and college requirements. The office group spends much time answering questions, filling out blue absence slips, pink detention slips, and white passes; while collecting tuition, and fulfilling the many other duties that come before them.

Mrs. David Smith, school secretary, has a ready smile as she calmly receives notes of excuse from one student after another before, during, and after school. Her ability to remember the name of practically every student of SEH is a phenomenon that amazes us, the students. We owe a sincere "thank you" to Mrs. Smith.

Building Renewal Began in Summer

Before work could begin in the various classrooms, all the desks had to be removed. Here, the "old makes way for the new," as the wooden desks which had been with the school since it was built, are towed away by Mel Jurisich to their final resting place. Filling their places are modernistic, comfortable, and colorful new desks. The tops to the new additions arrived a little later than was expected, but all the students agreed heartily, on their arrival, that they were worth waiting for.

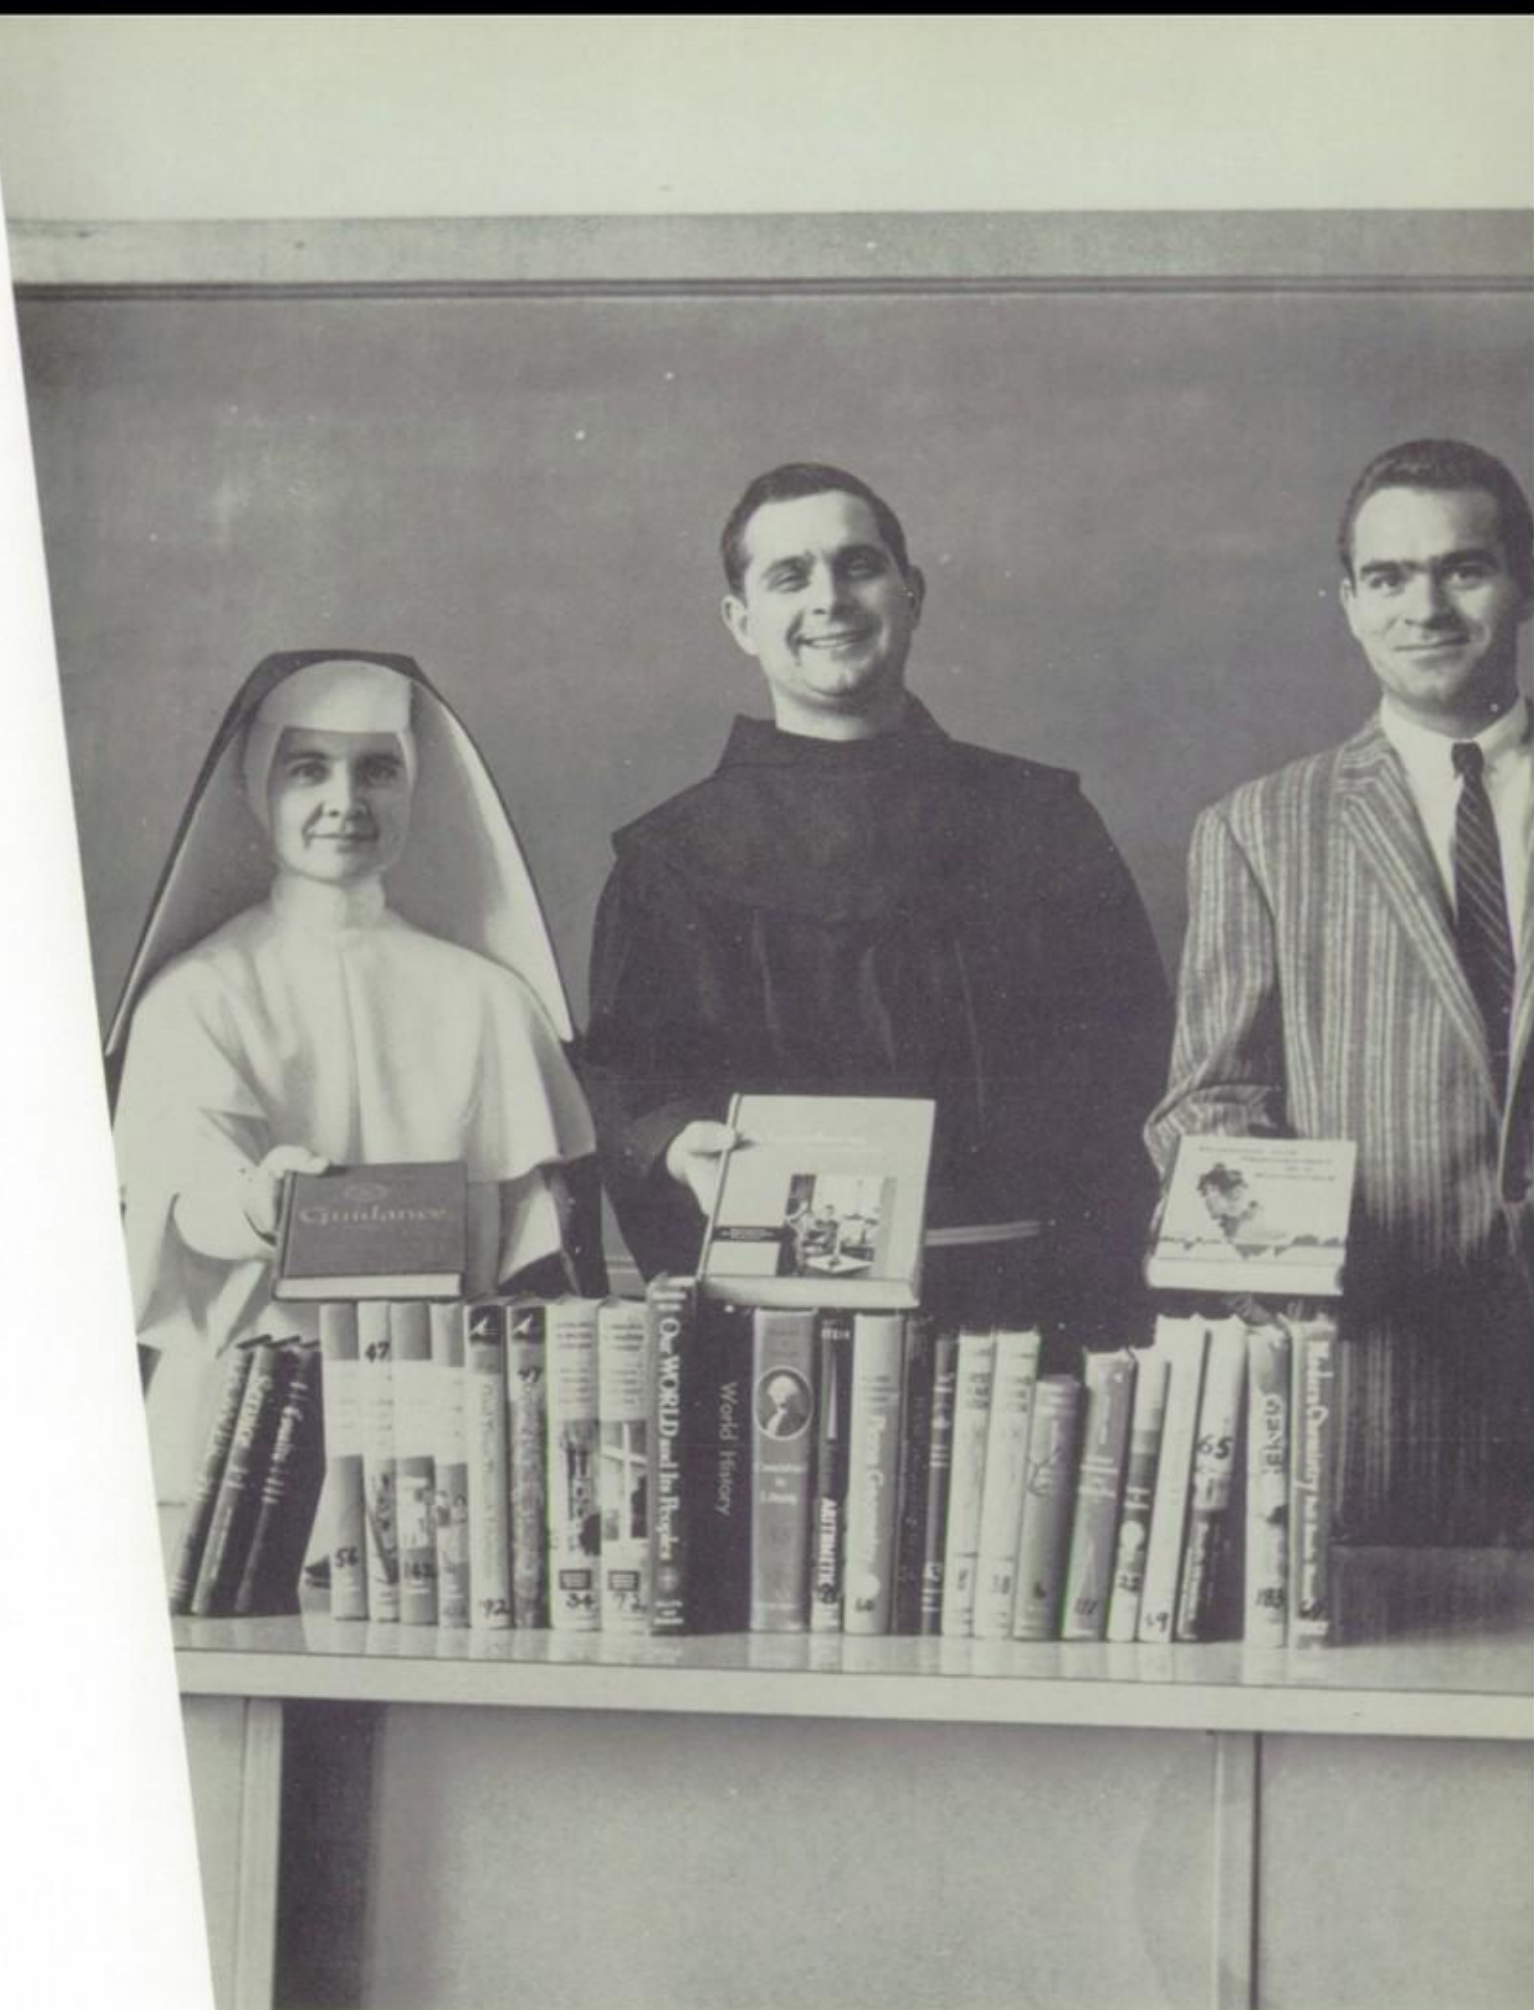

Father Roch inspects the flooring problem to be solved in the new lobby with the two contractors, George Steuer and Tony Morsilli. A truly proud addition to the school is the entrance lobby leading to the auditorium and offices. Wood panelling and "marble" pillars are the main features of the decor. One of the painters is shown as he skillfully adds the trimmings to the lobby windows. Scaffolds and workmen were a familiar everyday sight to the students of SEH.

All types of new electrical wiring and fixtures were installed during the first semester when, from the depths of gaping holes in the walls, the instructions given by workmen echoed gaily into the classrooms of SEH. The typing rooms, which received forty spanking new I.B.M. typewriters, first required the installation of forty difficult electrical plugs.

New lighting casts many a new light on school subjects. The public address system is one of the many other additions which fills the gaping holes made by the workmen. The two workmen shown here came to be known affectionately as Herman and Charlie to the students.

FACULTY — CLASSES

Father Roch is diligently teaching his junior religion class the importance of the Bible.

Religion, most valued

Emmet Porche answers a question asked by Father Emery during sophomore religion class.

Religion, the most valued of all subjects, leads each student through the entire four years of his high school career to a better understanding of the teachings of his faith in a finely developed and orderly manner.

Seniors take every aspect of married life, while the underclassmen diligently apply themselves to learning more of the life of Our Lord and the laws that govern our faith.

The religion courses in school are designed to provide the student with knowledge not received in grammar school and to carry him through his lifetime here on earth in order that he may gain heaven for eternity.

In directed reading, Dan Boyle, Joe Archuleta, John Kugler, Bob Pementell, Tom Brown, and Pat McGee discuss stories they have read.

The main reason for stressing English is that each student may learn to read, to write, and to speak English as effectively as possible and to understand, appreciate, and evaluate significant literature in the English language. St. Elizabeth's requires four years of English.

The department hopes to make the student aware of literary masterpieces that they may stimulate him to solid habits of correct thinking and purposeful living based on fundamental Christian concepts.

It strives further to develop in the student the habit of correct and logical writing of fact and fiction, and it gives every encouragement to students who display individual talents in creative writing.

Pat Fennelly and Ross Hossack listen as Dan Seitz gives a book report in junior English.

John Severini, Tim Murphy, and Joe Ecker display the three dimensional projects they made illustrating biographies they read.

To the left, senior girls discuss short short stories they wrote. Later in the year, the girls wrote a short story.

Students

Freshmen James Lindall, James Cooper, and Sydnia Kittredge compare graphs made during their study of General Math.

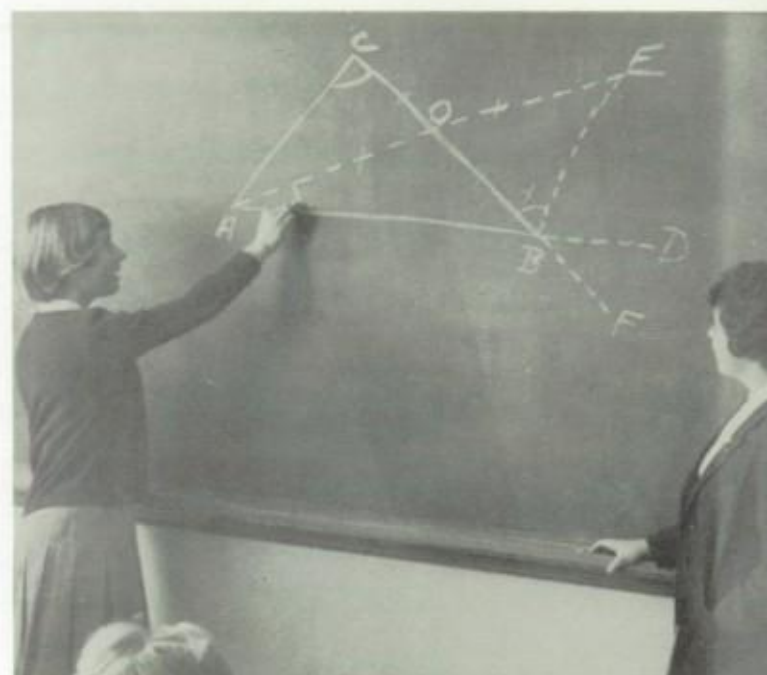

Katherine James, Kathleen Dombrink, and Kenneth Kindblad busily work out algebra problems while Victor Soares and Edward Sikes eagerly watch.

Chemical experiments receive the careful attention of Thomas Meyers, Carol Douglass, Melvin Jurisich, Lynda Greer, Donna Baker, and Judith Bean, under the direction of Sister M. Grace.

Geometric theorems and proofs are made clear after a detailed demonstration by Michele Quinn and Yvonne Gambetta.

Dennis Logwood explains the intricacies of higher mathematics to fellow students of trigonometry.

Practical Math

Math classes at SEH are designed to equip each student with a well-rounded background for handling numbers. Geared to the student's ability, the courses range from practical mathematics to trigonometry and emphasize not only mechanics, but also the fundamentals of reasoning.

Since, due to the remodeling of the school, laboratory facilities this year were limited to chemistry only, the course was opened to both juniors and seniors. Freshmen took a general science course. The chemistry classes stressed mastery of the essentials of modern chemistry, but students who showed special ability were encouraged to use the laboratory after school for challenging projects.

Pat McGee and Mal Castro explore the balance scale for an experiment in general science.

Phil Martin traces routes of the early explorers for his fellow students in American history.

In civics, Kathy Lima opens a panel discussion on Communism. Other members are Joanne Alves, Maly Menendez, Susan Coleman, and Mary McDonough.

Louis Cesario points up the problems of Hawaii as fiftieth state for Jerry Pittore, Angelo Inocencio, Gene Calabro, Denny Sullivan, and Anthony Annunzio as the group prepares a discussion for world relations.

Freshmen Patricia August, Dorothy Costello, Robert Dingman, Ed Billing, Tim Murphy, and Art Caine do research on the glories of Greek culture.

Helping the student to understand the present through knowledge of the past, and of the world he lives in, is the aim of the social science department, which includes courses in civics, American history, world history, world geography, and world relations.

Through the teacher's presentation, the use of modern equipment to "expand" the classroom, his own research into events current and past, and discussion with his fellow students, the SEH'er is prepared to take his place as an American citizen and to make his contribution to the solution of world problems as one informed, grounded in Christian principles, and trained to search for truth and act upon it.

Latin, Spanish broaden

Irma Kauaihilo, Ken Raphael, and Jack Locke help Steve Dombrink over a tough Latin passage.

"La guitarra es el instrumento nacional de Mexico," according to Ed Smith's third year Spanish report.

Realizing that knowledge of Latin not only aids students to understand their own complex language better, but also introduces them to classical studies, the language department offers three years in this study.

The essentials of grammar and vocabulary mastered in the first two years are grasped more deeply during the third year when a rapid or "running" translation of Latin becomes the aim.

Sandy Tanzillo illustrates a Latin construction to her second year classmates.

Special stress is placed on fluent speech during the three year program in Spanish. Grammar, vocabulary, and composition in the colorful language are not neglected, but each student is called upon often to speak.

Interviews, dialogues, plays, and informal speeches impart interest, as well as knowledge of Hispanic culture, to the daily lessons by which the students prepare to meet their Southern neighbors with increased ease and understanding.

Offering courses in introductory business, typing, shorthand, transcription, bookkeeping, and business law, St. Elizabeth's provides a well-rounded commercial department.

The typing rooms, equipped for work within a week after school had opened, were a sign of the expansion and improvement promised for the whole plant. New desks, new chairs, and new typewriters, both electric and manual, help to speed mastery of the keyboard.

Secretaries-to-be strive for speed and accuracy in shorthand and transcription and become accustomed to various types of dictation by the use of disc and tape recordings.

Knowledge of business forms, services, operations, accounting, and laws contribute to the preparation of the students for intelligent, economical citizenship in the business world.

*May God bless you, Kathleen, with much happiness in your school days ahead!
Sister John Bosco, O.P.*

Don Meyers, Tom Brown, and John Gendreau listen intently as Miss Luptak explains the art of making a tesserae or paper mosaic.

In an improvised art room, Lynda Greer works diligently on a collage, one of the many assignments of the year.

Scope of sewing, art classes widens.

Mrs. Elsie Pargett
Sewing

The crowded conditions of past years no longer exist in the sewing classes. Throughout the day, girls of all four classes work efficiently in the pleasant surroundings of the new, enlarged sewing room. This course at St. Elizabeth's is offered not only to teach the girls to sew, but also to cultivate their personalities as future homemakers.

The art program has been enlarged to include ceramics by the addition of a kiln in the remodeled art room. The purpose of the classes is not necessarily to turn out artists, but to make the students more aware of the beauty of God's earth and, thus, to help them live more richly.

Miss Emi Luptak
Art

Working on their sewing projects, Pat Turner and Maureen Bevis agree that the twenty new Singer sewing machines are wonderful.

Anita Metcalf and Judy Forseppi also enjoy the modern facilities of the renovated sewing room, painted in soft pastels of pink and green.

Building gets face-lifting.

Modernization and improvement of St. Elizabeth's exterior began with construction of a brick retaining wall for the palms and shrubs which now adorn the entrance. The bulldozer graded a load of top soil to prepare the athletic field across the street for re-seeding.

Sand-blasters raised clouds of dust as they scoured the building. Painters completed the face-lifting with complementary tones of tan and chocolate brown.

Inside, members of the Parents Club ripped out the wall between A6 and A7 as the first step towards the construction of the new science labs. Workmen lowered the ceilings of the first floor halls to add the modern touch to the remodeled building.

ACTIVITIES

Jim Diamantine races to escape the St. Mary's defenders.

Anita Metcalf, Judy Forseppi, Judy's little sister, and Carol Gamba arouse the Homecoming spirit.

Homecoming highlights football season.

Decoration of cars and the lovely float started early in the morning of that long awaited day — Homecoming.

Festivities started at 12:30, when Queen Peggy Griffiths and her attendants climbed aboard the float decorated in red and white, which led the parade to the San Leandro field. A boxed-off section awaited them at the home field, and as soon as the royal court was settled, the game began.

It was a hard game in which St. Mary's of Stockton defeated us 31 to 14. At half-time, St. Mary's Band serenaded Queen Peggy while she was presented with a lei of red carnations.

That night at the dance Peggy made her royal entrance with Senior Class President Dan Gustin, while the Block SE officers escorted her attendants.

Following tradition, Peggy was crowned by Bev Rego, 1958 Homecoming Queen, and received another bouquet of flowers. Thereafter, Peggy and Dan had the first dance, followed by the attendants. This began an evening of enjoyment for everyone.

Drives help finance renewal.

Fourth annual Chocolate Drive got off to a fast start when the seniors received their quota of the World's Finest Chocolate.

Dan Gustin, Art Williams, and Gene Calabro help unload some of the 48,000 bars of chocolate sold during the drive.

Mark Milano, captain of the winning team, and Isabel Munita, grand prize winner, discuss their selling techniques.

Four major drives were held this year to help finance the renewal of the school.

The fourth annual chocolate drive, held in October, saw the freshmen sell the most chocolate. During the paper drives of November and April, the students gathered papers by the ton. Early in March a magazine subscription drive, under the auspices of the Catholic Digest, netted 33 per cent profit for the school on each subscription obtained.

Students practice self-government.

The Student Council and the Student Senate are a connecting link between the faculty and students. During the monthly council meetings the studentbody officers and class officers speak for the students while Father Emery, principal, represents the faculty. Working together the council discusses problems and makes the plans for the next month. These plans are presented to the studentbody at the following assembly conducted entirely by the studentbody officers. This assembly is an improvement over the bulletin previously used to inform the students of the coming events.

The Student Senate, whose members were chosen from the junior and senior classes, replaced the Student Control this year. The standing members together with the moderator made the final decisions on membership. The senators give citations for infractions of the school rules and then they act as a court to sentence the offenders.

The officers of the Eastbay Unit of the Federation meet with the moderators from the Eastbay area.

SEH supports Federation.

St. Elizabeth's took a large role in the activities of the Eastbay Unit of the Federation this year by hosting both a discussion meeting and the annual dance.

The Federation, which provides a springboard for Catholic Action by high school students in the Archdiocese, discussed the program of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, Social Service, Home Missions, and the Crusade for Decent Literature.

At the Archdiocesan Convention at the Oakland Civic Auditorium, Russell Smith, representing the Eastbay Unit, summarized the year's activities.

These many students were active during the year in the Federation.

Editor Dorothy Crudele and business manager Lynda Greer look over pictures illustrating the "year of progress."

Publications inform, reflect

SEH has two publications, the school newspaper, the Thuringian, and the yearbook, the Elizabethan. Both aim to inform, to reflect, to influence, and to entertain the studentbody. This aim is carried out by the staffs and faculty moderator, Sister M. De Montfort, O. P.

Since the Elizabethan necessarily stresses reflection, the staff must select the events which best record the year, then reproduce in picture and word the significant highlights of each. This book is the test of their achievement.

To maintain high standards in each issue of the Thuringian, six major steps are carried out. At a preliminary meeting, the page editors present ideas for features and news.

After the printer sends back a "dummy" of the issue, the staff goes to work proofreading and pasting-up. Proofreaders are, from left, Ken Raphael, Russell Smith, Jack Locke, Tom Meyers, and Mel Jurisich. News Editors Joan Doupont, left, and Kathy Reay take care of the paste-up. Finally, Susan McTigue, Dave Pacheco, and Paul August make sure that copies of the latest issue are distributed, while Floyd and Florence Nabonne check advertising accounts.

Sodality encourages spiritual,

Much spiritual endeavor, fun, and excitement have resulted from the spiritual, apostolic, and social activities of Our Lady's Sodality.

Noon Rosary during October, the food drive at Thanksgiving, and the toy drive at Christmas were sponsored by the Sodalists.

The Day of Recollection, conducted by Father John Ring at the Motherhouse, Mission San Jose, in December, gave sodalists an opportunity to bring themselves closer to God.

Spiritual formation was furthered by the monthly conferences given by Father Kennan Osborne, O.F.M.

On May 15, seniors promised to try to realize the ideals of the Sodality throughout their lives, to live always as children of Mary.

Contributing no small part to the spiritual vitality of Saint Elizabeth High School are the 27 members of St. Paschal's Acolyte Guild. Having received a thorough training in the manner of assisting the priest at Mass and other ceremonies during grade school, they continue their service during their high school years. They are appointed regularly to serve Mass and assist at funerals and weddings. Their responsibility is truly a credit to the school.

Outstanding students merit awards.

Achievements in the commercial and homemaking departments as well as all around ability received recognition this year.

Barbara Bauder, at top, ranked as the top student in Shorthand II.

Art Panella received the Outstanding Citizen's Award given by the Optimist Club. His abilities as a leader in studies, sports, and extracurricular activities merited him the award.

Donna Frere achieved the title of "Homemaker of Tomorrow" of Saint Elizabeth High School in the annual Betty Crocker contest.

California Scholarship Federation is a state organization which awards recognition to excellent students. To achieve CSF membership, a student must earn ten points, that is, at least three A's and one B, or two A's and four B's in prepared subjects taken daily.

Those students who accomplished this goal during the first semester of this year are, right to left: Lee Ann Mondragon, Gail Kindblad, Judy Bean, Kathleen Dombrink, Kenneth Kindblad, Tom Meyers, John Locke, Ed Paschote, Art Panella, and Mel Jurisich.

Dramatists produce comedies,

Drama at St. Elizabeth High involves many students. Not only the actors and actresses but also the behind-the-scene workers, crews, costume designers and prop committees, count in putting on a play.

"The Imaginary Invalid", a classic comedy by Moliere was presented in November. Under the direction of Father Roch, O.F.M., the play proved successful and provided enjoyment for all.

In February, the seniors presented a modern whodunit, "Bull in a China Shop", under the direction of Sister Mary Edward, O.P. Many laughs were shared by all who attended.

Scientists develop talents.

The Science Club, moderated by Sister M. Grace, O.P., gives SEH'ers an opportunity to learn about their interests in science. Points are given for all activities, and pins are awarded to those who earn 100 points.

In connection with the Science Club and the chemistry classes, SEH presented its first Science Fair in February. All the students entered their projects in the competition. Miss Maryann Dombrink, science major at the College of the Holy Names, and Mr. R. W. Clark and Mr. Lawler, both of California Research Associates, judged the projects.

Paul Doupont took top honors with the Proximity Relay he constructed. Second place was awarded to Tom Meyers whose project on quantum mechanics told of the movement and speed of electrons within the atom. Joan Doupont won third prize with her original periodic chart.

Semester brings staff, class changes.

Promise of good things to come was offered by the work on the homemaking laboratory. While waiting to use the new stoves and the ample storage and work space, the senior girls studied theory and "experimented" at home. Sister Mary Edward, O.P., initiated the course at SEH in February.

Students enjoy new, enlarged library.

One of the most welcomed improvements in the renovation of the high school is the new library. Now located conveniently on the lower floor, it offers more books and about twice the space of the old library. It also has a stack and a work room to keep the books at hand and in good condition.

When Sister Mary Brendan, O.P., who designed the library, was transferred at midterm, Sister Mary Joseph, O.P., took her place as librarian.

After their finale, a singing review of the whole show, the entire cast expresses their appreciation to their moderators.

Class of '61 presents

The Junior Jamboree this year contained a variety of talents. John Baker was stage director of the entire show, and Dan Seitz emceed the production. Television programs, stage productions, song and dance routines, and a smattering of drama were highlights of the show.

Scenes were effectively set with impressionistic scenery. The stage crew hustled to keep intervals between acts to a minimum.

Sharon Alhino, kneeling, Ruth Ann Eacurce, and Barney Welsh perform a song and dance routine to "Frankie and Johnny."

the Junior Jamboree.

The Juniors displayed their ability for originality in several of their presentations. They attribute much of their success to the help given by their moderators, Father Roch Fitzgerald, O.F.M., Sister M. Elizabeth, O.P., Sister M. John Bosco, O.P., and Sister M. Renilde, O.P.

An interpretation of "Don Brown's Body" was hilariously executed by Linda Sullivan, Ken Raphael, and Harry Nickle.

Sports organizations spark enthusiasm,

The seniors, in white, and sophs vie for the intramural championship during noon-time basketball.

The Block SE is a society for boys who have earned a letter in football, basketball, baseball, or track. Having done so, they may purchase a block sweater and add one stripe for each season of a sport. Only those juniors who have a block may obtain a senior jacket. The lettermen held a dance in the early part of the year, the proceeds going towards next year's senior jackets. The blocks are given out each year at the Annual Awards Banquet.

The Girls' Athletic Association is an organization of girls who are interested in sports and various activities. Members of all four classes can join by obtaining a membership card and obeying the rules. The various activities during the year included swimming, skating, and bowling parties, which were enjoyed by all. The girls also attended a number of playdays with other schools.

Varsity and JV Pep Squads add

The varsity cheerleaders and the pom-pom girls added much toward the rousing spirit at the games. Chosen by a group of cheerleaders from the University of San Francisco in June, 1959, the pep squad with their rhythmic, colorful routines and yells played a vital part during football and basketball games.

Dances round out social life.

In the tradition of "That Old Christmas Feeling" Senior Kathy Berry and her escort Larry Wallace '59, pose in front of the mansion which formed the chief decoration at this year's Christmas Ball.

At St. Elizabeth, the students enjoyed the social opportunities provided by the well-attended dances. They formed a good basis for boy-girl friendships, and they tended to draw the sponsoring classes or organizations closer together. By working on dance committees students acquired a sense of responsibility and pride in presenting an enjoyable evening.

Many holiday dances were anticipated with enthusiasm by all. The impromptu dances held after the Friday night basketball games helped to enrich our friendship with other schools.

To climax the social year, juniors and seniors planned the annual Junior Prom and Senior Ball. The auditorium was transformed into a dream world for the evening of the Prom, while the seniors stepped out to Mount Diablo Country Club for their ball.

King and Queen of Mardi Gras this year were Danny Sheridan and Barbara Annunzio. As they reigned over the dance Freshmen Georganne Torgerson, Joann Promes, Gloria Gallo, Mary Vargas, and Carole Georgantes posed for the photographer.

Great things were expected from the SEH football team in 1959. Anyone watching the spring practice would have said a champion was being groomed because the team seemed to have just what it needed for a winning record. There were experience, speed, great potential, and most important, there appeared to be spirit.

With the loss of the opening game against Livermore, the team began a record that gradually strangled the pre-season energy and enthusiasm. Injuries sustained by key members contributed to the lack of success as did the incurring of ineligibility by several team members. Although St. Elizabeth's varsity football team finished the season without a single victory, there were some bright spots. Good runners on the Mustang team included Jerry Wall and Bill Locke. Quarterback Jim Diamantine provided a few highlighted notes in an otherwise poor season, with excellent passing to some fine receivers in Jim Wallace, Ed Cutter and Jim McDonough.

Mustang five fights skillfully.

Russ Vrankovich, second highest scorer in the Catholic Athletic League, has been awarded many trophies for his outstanding sportsmanship and playing ability.

The 1959-60 basketball season was successful in spite of many heartbreaking losses. Under the expert guidance of Coach Jack Hansen, the Mustangs defeated Saint Mary's Panthers for the first time in ten years. In the traditional O'Dowd game the team showed the spirit and sportsmanship characteristic of every game.

New to the squad were Jim Brennan, Ed Pashote, Harry Nickle, and Jim McEvoy. Jim Wallace and Pat Furlong excelled in rebounding and shooting. Center John Babel's constant perseverance and enthusiasm made him a definite asset to the team. As for defense, Dan Gustin and Jim Snider were constantly on their guard to keep the ball in Mustang hands.

Catching the eyes of all, Russ Vrankovich showed great promise for the future by his startling performance in the Catholic Athletic League. Besides being chosen for the CAL All-Catholic Five, he was named All-League, All-Metropolitan, and Prep of the Week.

Altogether the boys made up a wonderful, hardworking team in the traditional SEH style.

JV's take championship in close

The Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. Tom Davis, captured the CAL title with a 10-4 league record. They posted a 17-8 season record.

Led by Freshman Tom Hansen, offense, and Sophomore Jim Martin, defense, the JV's depended on the balanced shooting and rebounding skills of Len Thomas, Stu Baatz, and Dan Sheridan. The team showed good sportsmanship and hustle throughout the season.

One highlight of the season was the tromping the Mustang Colts handed the O'Dowd Dragons.

The championship game against Bel-larmine was a thriller. With the game tied in the last minute, Ernie Sanchez tossed a free throw which was quickly cancelled by a Bell's free throw. With four seconds remaining, Murray Long went up for the necessary two. Fouled in the act of shooting, Murray calmly popped in both foul shots for a 42-40 victory and the Catholic Athletic League Junior Varsity Championship.

The freshman team, coached by Mr. Dan Dolan, also deserves a hand for a successful season. Out of twenty-two games played, thirteen resulted in victories for the frosh. The outstanding players were Ed Billings, Marshall Collins, Chuck Yurgelevic, John Gendreau, and Mike Wall, who racked up 262 points.

Volleyball Varsity posted a season record of four wins and one loss for 1959. Coached by Miss Lourdes Ganare, the girls developed powerful serves and returns that were hard to meet. Long hours of practice paid off when the varsity vanquished O'Dowd, Notre Dame (Alameda), Notre Dame (San Jose), and Marin Catholic. They were defeated only by Immaculate Conception Academy.

The JV's were also triumphant with a four to one record.
